Get the Skills You Need for Better Patient Care

There are more than 120,000 stoma surgeries each year, and that number is only going to increase thanks to an aging population. Care for these patients involves physiological, emotional, and even social impacts associated with treatment. Gaining the skills and knowledge to properly handle gastrointestinal and urinary tract disorders can dramatically impact patient outcomes and sustain a high quality of life.

The Ostomy Management Specialist® course from the Wound Care Education Institute® will teach you the skills you need to be a confident leader and provide practical, professional care for this under-served population.

This is no "test-prep" course - WCEI® provides up-to-date clinical education that you will learn today and use tomorrow to improve patient care. Our courses are taught by our cadre of dynamic, engaging, and experienced ostomy care clinicians.
